8. CONTACUS

1. Purpose

This policy is for the benefit of employees. Employee should apply for leave if he/she is unable to work on that day. The leave rules have been formulated to enable employees to maintain a healthy work life balance.

The objective of this policy is to facilitate the employees to take leave from work for sickness/emergency/personal work/rest and recreation.

2. Eligibility

The leave policy is applicable to all full-time employees across different locations. Leave calculation is based on the calendar year - January to December.

3. Standard Compliance

Local labour laws, National /International and Festival Holidays Act, Bluethink group corporate Governance.

4. Types of Leave

Leave Type	Days
Paid Leaves/Casual Leave - India	12 working days per year
Short Leave	2 in a month
Compensatory off	As applicable
Leave without pay	As applicable

3.1 Casual Leave/Paid Leave.

Basis on location full time employees will have casual leave every calendar year. Leave balance will be credited to the employee's account Bi-Monthly, by 1st of every month. First three months there will be no leave provided. All Leaves will be credit in account together after three months. Forcasual leaves exceeding 5 consecutive days the employee must notify their manager a month inadvance. Without applying in portal the leave will be considered as unpaid leave.

FAQ: If I take leave on Friday and Monday, will it be considered 2 or 4 days of casual leave?

It will be considered only 4 days. If you have a National Holiday in the middle of your vacation, itwill be excluded from the number of days you have availed. So, if you plan your leave well aroundweekends and holidays, you can enjoy longer breaks.

You may carry forward only 3 unused days of leave of the current year to the next year.

Procedure for applying leave application:

1. Employee should apply for leave through My Bluethink portal. Status is in submitted.
2. Reporting Manager approves or rejects by clicking on email – Reject/Approve links, based on work priority. Status can be – Approved or Rejected.
3. For short duration leave, i.e., 1-2 days, approval is required 7 days in advance, in case of 5 days leave, approval needs to be taken one month in advance and anything more than 15 days, this requires 2 months prior approval.
4. Under exceptional circumstances (i.e., sickness or urgent work) if the employee is not able to apply for leave beforehand, he/she must inform their reporting Managers and HR on the same morning either through email/text message.
5. In above cases, the member should submit the Leave Application online on the day he/she returns from leave.
6. Submitted leaves can be cancelled only by Reporting Manager in case if needed.
7. If absent without Leave approval or notice, then employee's paid leave is deducted.
   For tracking, employees can make use of 'Attendance page' in My Bluethink portal.
8. Both Casual leave and sick leave cannot be apply together.
9. There will be total 12 Casual Leave and 2 short leave in a month.

3.1 Compensatory Off:

If a regular employee works on any public holiday or weekly off, then he/she is eligible for a compensatory off.

Eligibility & Applicability

1. Employee who works for minimum 8 hours and or more would be eligible for 1 day Comp off.
2. Employee who works for minimum 4 hours and not exceeding 6 hours would be eligible for 0.5 day Comp off.

Procedure to avail a Comp Off:

1. Any employee who would have worked on a weekend or holiday, Employee has to mail to their respective manager and HR generate a comp off request.
2. The Manager reviews the work hours and tasks accomplished, post which he/she can accept or reject the comp off credit request.
3. Once approved, the comp off balance will reflect under leaves tab.
4. Employee can then avail this comp off within 60 days from the date it was credited.
5. The employee's default validation for the comp off is 60 days and once the validity period is over, the comp off automatically gets lapsed.
6. However, the comp off does not have any threshold and remains valid even after the end of a calendar year.

Example: If an employee works on 25th December 2019, then his/her comp off earned for that day will remain valid till 25th March 2020. (Only Applicable for last week)

3.2 Encashment

You cannot take leave while serving your notice period. Incase of employee termination due to disciplinary issues, leave encashment will be based on management's discretion. For those who are serving the Organization for less than a year, leave encashment will not be applicable.

3.3 Leave without pay/Loss of Pay

Leave without pay is only an option after casual leave is exhausted. Kindly note it is not an entitlement and needs the approval of your manager or the function head.

LOP Calculation Process

I. LOP will be calculated on a monthly basis and will be based on unpaid leave balance for the previous month.
II. Employees are expected to regularize their attendance by 30th of the following month and get it approved by their reporting Manager to avoid LOP deduction.
III. The lop will be based on data available in My Bluethink Portal. It will not be revoked under any circumstances post the deadline of 30th of the subsequent month.

3.4 Availing Sick Leave

You can avail leaves as sick leaves when you are unwell. However, your manager and the HR reserve the right to ask for a medical certificate in case the leave extends beyond 3 days.

3.5 Short Leave

Time off is leave that cannot be casual. You may take off for few hours (maximum 3 hrs) for some personal emergencies. Beyond 3 hours it will be considered as half day PL and beyond 7 hours will be considered as a full day of PL. Time off cannot be combined with any other kind of leave. These are allowed only during emergencies and not on a regular basis.

3.6 Maximum Leave

You are allowed to avail a maximum of 5 working days in one stretch (or different kinds of leave in combination) in one stretch. Leave greater than 5 days at a stretch would require a special approval by the manager and the functional Manager with genuine justification.

This does not apply to maternity leave.

4. Work from Home

Work from home is not promoted at Bluethink, however this option is restricted for only certain roles, emergencies and at certain times only. These requests should have necessary approvals by department heads. Work from home will be only provided for those who are working on project.

5. Salient Points

- For sick leave or time off, you need to call your manager as soon as possible. You need to complete the leave approval process in My Bluethink Portal once you report to Office.
- HR will send information on leave to the Finance team on the 30th of every month. Excess leave taken will be deducted from the salary.

  Note: Any leaves taken beyond the existing PL balance, gross salary for those days will be automatically deducted from your salary.
- At Bluethink, you are encouraged to plan and take your leave regularly every year.
- While carry forward is allowed, the intention of the leave policy is that you take leave regularly to relax, meet personal obligations, and pursue special interests.

6. Simple Guidelines

- Ensure that you have received leave approval before making any other holiday commitments.
- Do ensure that your manager is informed of your leave schedule well in advance and has your contactable phone numbers.
- Ensure that colleagues and business associates are also informed of your leave schedule.
- Ensure that you have handed over your work with complete instructions and contactable phone numbers to the concerned colleague.
- If you are unable to resume duty on the scheduled day due to circumstances beyond your control (such as a cancelled/delayed flight), please ensure that your manager and HR is informed.
- Leave out-of-office messages on your mail and phone etc. and provide alternate contacts.

1.1 Procedures

In case an employee is absent from the site of work for more than 3 consecutive working days without prior intimation and is not accessible through different modes of communication, a warning letter informing the employee to contact the reporting manager and the HR department within 3 days is sent from the Human Resource department to the employee.

Inability to comply with company's requirements for attendance at work even after necessary modes of communication and intimation will force the organization to terminate the employee who remains absent from worksite for more than 5 consecutive working days.

In case of excessive Absenteeism by an employee without intimation, the reporting manager has to send an email to the Human Resources department to take the disciplinary actions.

The decision to terminate an employee is done with the written authorization from the Management and Human Resources department.

A copy of the letter of Termination will be sent to the employee and no Final Settlement dues will be paid.
